

Teaching financial literacy at the second level of primary school

Mgr. Jiří Helus

We live in a world in which finance plays an important role. How we manage it, whether we can get it and keep it, significantly affects the quality of our lives. The place to increase our financial literacy and prepare us for a life of finance is primary school. To find out how financial literacy in primary school is taught, I created a questionnaire for primary school teachers.

I would like to give you a brief overview of how financial literacy is taught according to the RVP, as well as the teachers' answers to the already mentioned questionnaire. You will find out in which year financial literacy is taught the most, in which subject, which topics, with which forms of teaching and what teachers would need to teach financial literacy better.
